AFTERWORD

Hello, Takanaga Hinako here. This "Bukyou na Silent" special is my thank you for subscribing! In this MAGAMI magazine, there wasn't a schedule set for drawing animal-eared couples. I thought it would be released after the magazine, but somehow it became a special insert. I'm absolutely delighted.

And what's more, it's in color. How needlessly fancy! Even though I say that, apart from me, there are those who get their drawings professionally colored, I don't have much experience, so doing it myself wasn't a pleasant thing. But I think it came out looking pretty! I'll be very happy if you found it to your liking.

This time I drew 10 pages of comics and a 1 page Afterword (this one). Also, to make Tamiya-inu and Toono-neko animal-like, naturally their bodies are different sizes. It's intended to be a "cuddly" manga. If I could have done so, President Kagami would have appeared here, but I couldn't do it. The illustration below is the only one I managed to do. Yuu-chan makes an irritable cat. As for Kagami-san, an image of a black dog comes to mind, so I wondered how to draw him. If I went for a Doberman look, he would look a little stern. A black panther would be wonderful. (Ah, a shepherd would be nice too) He looks Doberman-like below. Yuu-chan is something like an Abyssinian. I envisioned a sleek, color-changing cat. Speaking of which, Tamiya-inu in this issue is a Collie, while Toono-neko is a crossbreed (laugh). But I say that with affection. It's embarrassing to admit, but I'm not familiar with animal breeds, so sorry about that!

Anyway, anyway, about this issue. "Bukyou" will be continued soon. MAGAMI magazine readers, please check it out!
Thank you so much for subscribing! This was short, but I hope you enjoyed it.
